News From Around PA

The AP reports three of Pennsylvania's 500 public school districts are on strike: Lackawanna County's Old Forge School District, Luzerne County's Wyoming Area School District and Allegheny County's Shaler Area School District.

New Hope Borough, (Bucks County) Register of Wills has refused to perform same-sex 'marriages.' However, in New Hope the Raven held a Summer Poolside Show to Benefit PA Marriage Equality.

Bristol Borough (Bucks County) is looking at a so-called anti-discrimination ordinance which would include 'sexual orientation and gender identity.'

Fifty-two locations in Connellsville have requested Ten Commandment monuments on their property. So far the Thou Shalt Not Move group has raised money for 14 monuments. In the meantime, the Connellsville School District and Freedom From Religion Foundation continue the legal fight over the 50 year old monument on school property.

News from National Scene

Two admitted homosexual activists who recently got a civil union in New Jersey are expressing outrage because the Ohio-based company one of them works for will not recognize the civil union and permit his partner to be added to his health care coverage. They see this as a need for same-sex "marriage" nationwide: "We need our congressmen and senators to act on a federal level to fix this once and for all. It's a totally unacceptable situation, and one [that] I don't want to fund with my tax dollars." Hmm, and we want to fund homosexual "marriage"?

In an August 29th letter to AFL-CIO President Richard Trumka, the president of the International Longshore and Warehouse Union wrote they have formally ended their association with the AFL-CIO. The Longshoremen cited Obamacare and immigration reform as the reasons for disaffiliation.

DC Mayor Vincent Gray disinvited a gospel singer from a city-sponsored concert at the Martin Luther King memorial. Why? Because Donnie McClurkin is an ex-gay and homosexual activists were upset he was to be part of the event.

CVS, RiteAid, and Walgreens

have moved Plan B to the open shelves to be sold like other non-prescription drugs. AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
