News From Around PA

LGBT Equality Caucus has been formed by members of the PA House and Senate. The idea was first suggested by Equality PA in early 2011. It is the first caucus of its kind formed in the PA legislature to solely push for homosexual special rights laws. There are currently 23 State Reps and 3 State Senators in the caucus. For more info, contact AFA of PA.

LGBT Youth Organizations have been in conflict for the past seven months, since students involved with Equality PA Student Network Across Pennsylvania (SNAP) broke away to form the Pennsylvania Student Equality Coalition (PSEC). Jason Landau Goodman

(those involved in fighting homosexual special rights ordinances in southeastern PA will recognize the name) is the Executive Director of PSEC. Equality PA has refused to dismantle SNAP. Currently the liberal website change.org has a PSEC petition up that says in part, " We support enumerated anti-bullying and safe schools legislation inclusive of sexual orientation and gender identity and expression. We support the Pennsylvania Student Equality Coalition as the Pennsylvania statewide LGBTQ youth organization." They currently have field offices in Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh.

Equality PA has received two $25,000 grants recently.

Planned Parenthood in State College closed its doors on Tuesday. They claim the recent economic downturn is the reason for the closure.

Philadelphia HIV rate is five times the national average!

New from National Scene

Boston University's School of Public Health researchers found one in 13 teenage girls reported having a 'multi-person sex' experience – often initiated by boyfriends who had been watching porn. Average age 15.6!

Recently released CDC Stats for 2009 found young persons aged 13 to 29 accounted for 39% of all new HIV infections in the US. Young Men Who Have Sex With Men accounted for 27% of new HIV infections in the US and 69% of new HIV infections among persons aged 13–29.

AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
