News From Around PA

Whitpain Township in Montgomery County recently passed a billboard ordinance which placed limitations on billboard content, prohibiting them from advertising "any adult or sexually oriented businesses or materials, contain[ing] any obscene or profane language."

V-Day Project at Clarion University is now giving the proceeds from the vulgar "Vagina Monologues" production to PASSAGES Inc. located in Clarion, DuBois and Brookville. PASSAGES deals with sexual violence, yet they accept proceeds from the provocative, sexually-explicit Vagina Monologues which teaches young ladies to "be proud of their sex organs" and encourages lesbianism with its high incidences of domestic violence.

Villanova University canceled a workshop on personal narrative by a 'gay' performance artist. Tim Miller, once dubbed the "patron saint of the gay performance world" said his workshops focus on personal narrative and the students guide the direction they take but topics often include faith, sexuality, self and truth. Bryn Mawr College has since scheduled Miller's workshop.

City of Philadelphia must pay the Cradle of Liberty Scout Council (COLBSA) $877,000 in legal fees from the city's failed attempt in federal court to evict the Scouts from their Philadelphia headquarters. Mayor Nutter's office and COLBSA had reached an agreement in November 2010, but homosexual activists quickly pressured City Council to reject it.

New from National Scene
President's Faith-based Initiative should be shut down! That from the man who guided President George W. Bush's faith-based initiatives from 2002 to 2006 saying the office has become a "faith-based farce" under President Barack Obama. He accuses Obama of turning the faith-based office into "nothing but a political outreach operation" to get clergy behind his agenda.

The Faith and Reproductive Justice Leadership Institute was launched by the Faith Initiative at the Center for American Progress. It "will provide new and seasoned leaders with the resources they need to be effective faith advocates for women's reproductive health." Needless to say they don't see a problem with the contraceptive mandate!

AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
