News From Around PA
Three homosexual couples from the Lehigh Valley married as part of the Bridge the Gap for Marriage Equality rally held just across the line into NJ. Easton Mayor Sal Panto Jr. said mayors should not take "the easy way out" and leave the issue up to state and federal officials. "This is where change begins."

The House Judiciary Committee heard testimony on a bill that would require DNA testing on suspects charged with certain crimes after their arrest but before they are convicted.

Ron Strouse of Doylestown defeated Republican opponent Bruce Rutherford to become the Keystone State's first openly homosexual mayor.

Voting 5-4 Lehigh County Commissioners rejected County Executive Matthew Crosli's proposal to provide medical benefits to the same-sex "spouses" of county employees.

Integrity Family Health is the new abortion clinic in Philadelphia. Eric Kfir Yahav is employed by the clinic and doing abortions there. He has ties to Stephen Chase Brigham, who has been banned from having any interest in abortion clinics in Pennsylvania.

News from National Scene
The overbearing question is whether President Obama's "fix" for the cancelled health insurance policies of millions is even legal. However, dumping a large population of policies into the pool at this late date that the actuaries haven't accounted for may well destabilize the entire insurance marketplace. Premiums have already been set for next year making certain assumptions.

House Speaker John Boehner said Wednesday that the House will not enter negotiations with the Senate to hash out differences between its immigration plans and the Senate immigration bill.

China, Russia and Saudi Arabia will all return to the UN Human Rights Council in January. This is just one year after term limits obliged them to stand down.

The U.S. Olympic Committee has added "sexual orientation" to its anti-discrimination policies. AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
