News From Around PA

More on Nov. 8 Election

-- The Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas now has three open homosexuals

--Marlene Pray, a lesbian who ran unopposed, won a Doylestown Borough Council seat. (Note: she also works with Planned Parenthood and the 'gay' youth organization Rainbow Room)

-- New Montgomery County Commissioners Democrats Josh Shapiro and Leslie Richards have pledged to spearhead a countywide homosexual special rights ordinance. (Note: Up to this point homosexuals have been targeting municipalities in Montgomery County. Since July 2010, there were eight attempts -- 3 were successful and 3 are 'still in play.' Abington Township voted it down and the Mayor of the Borough of Hatboro vetoed the ordinance. Remember these ordinances include 'sexual orientation and gender identity and affect employment, housing and public accommodations.)

Erie County Executive Barry Grossman appointed open homosexual Ebony Davis to be on the Erie County Human Relations Commission for a four-year term.

Nazareth Area Schools

During a dress rehearsal of the play "13" held at the middle school in front of students, it was "discovered" by the administration that there were references to sexual situations and innuendos. The play did go on, but only after changes.

Altoona Area School District

elementary students received the Ten Commandments this week! No, Moses wasn't there; but members of the Faith Baptist Church in Altoona were handing out book marks with the Ten Commandments on them. What a great idea!

New from National Scene

US Supreme Court has said it will take up "Obamacare." This week the AFA of PA signed onto a letter to Representative Lamar Smith, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee asking for hearings to investigate the full extent to which Justice Elena Kagan was involved in preparing the legal defense of "Obamacare" in her previous role as Solicitor General.

Parental Rights Coalition on Thursday released an online docudrama "Overruled" about the government invasion of your parental rights. Here's the link <http://www.overruledmovie.com/>

AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
