News From Around PA

Philadelphia Mayor Jim Kenney has enacted a travel ban on non-essential, city-funded travel to North Carolina and Mississippi. A preliminary review found no Philly contracts with either North Carolina or Mississippi.

Twenty people in Philly spent five days the second week of April training at LGBT University, a project of Freedom for All Americans. They learned how to lobby legislators and engage the business community in passing homosexual special rights laws like HB 1510 and SB 974. Of course, Christians understand "Freedom for all Americans" does not include them, as we see increased attacks on religious freedom!

Delaware Valley Legacy Fund, an organization that supports homosexual causes through philanthropy, has awarded Philly Mayor Jim Kenney its HERO award for his support of homosexuals.

A transgender man, that's a woman who thinks she's a man, settled her lawsuit with the U. of Pittsburgh. The details are confidential, but the school has made changes which include gender neutral housing and allowing men to use the women's restroom and vice versa.

News from National Scene

Dr. Eric Walsh, an associate pastor of a Georgia church, is suing that state after they fired him from his job as the director of Pasadena's public health department. The reason? He preached sermons where he called homosexuality a sin!

In response to pressure from homosexual activists over the signing of HB 2, NC Governor Pat McCrory signed Executive Order 93 which adds "sexual orientation and gender identity" to state employment policies. The statewide law still remains in effect.

House Speaker Paul Ryan's hometown of Janesville, WI has passed an ordinance allowing men who think they are women to use the women's restroom.

The Mayor and City Council of Palm Bay, FL voted 4-1 to reject a proposed ordinance that would have added "sexual orientation," "gender identity" and "gender expression" to its non-discrimination policy that applies to employment and public accommodations.

A female teacher who identifies as a male is set to open a private school for homosexual and transgender youth in GA. The "Pride School of Atlanta" will teach children K-12 beginning in September, and will operate from a Unitarian Universalist facility. The tuition: $13,000.
