News From Around PA

A senior at Central York High School received a three day in-school suspension for asking Miss America to the prom during a question and answer session at school. He stood up and popped the prom question, then walked to the stage with a plastic flower. He just laughed and the students cheered. School officials heard about the young man's plan in advance and warned him not to do it.

About 318,000 in PA have signed up for Obamacare. But the feds aren't telling whether these individuals were previously insured or if they've paid their first month's premiums.

Title IX complaints by the Women's Law Project have been filed against Bloomsburg, Cheyney,

Clarion, Indiana, Kutztown, Lock Haven, Mansfield, Millersville and Shippensburg Universities. The group says "data from each of the universities show significant gaps between enrollment of female students and their participation rates in athletic programs."

On Tuesday US District Judge John E. Jones declared PA's Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) unconstitutional. On Wednesday Governor Tom Corbett said he would not appeal the decision, becoming only the second Republican governor not to appeal such a decision.

News from National Scene

The proposed National Women's History Museum in Washington, DC, funded by taxpayer dollars, would idolize women like Planned Parenthood founder Margaret Sanger and Sandra Fluke.

On Monday U.S. District Judge Michael McShane struck down Oregon's Marriage Protection Amendment which 54% of voters approved in 2004.

David Barron was confirmed for a seat on the First Circuit Court of Appeals by a vote of 53-45. He developed the administrative policy that "It's okay to kill the US citizen, but not to detain him." Casey voted 'Yea;' Toomey voted 'Nay.'

At an unveiling ceremony at the White House, the new Forever Stamp honoring homosexual activist Harvey Milk was unveiled. He is portrayed as a martyr for the "cause," but his real life was something different. Read our news release for more details. Recommendation: refuse to purchase the Harvey Milk stamp and let the Post Office know why!

AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
