News From Around PA

One might ask why does PECO have such a large contingency marching in the Philadelphia Gay Parade. Well, the answer may be their open homosexual Vice President and general counsel Romulo, L. Diaz, Jr.

A federal judge in Pittsburgh granted a permanent injunction to the Catholic Diocese of Greensburg and two of its diocesan affiliates that halts the enforcement of Obamacare.

Chicago-based economic think tank Truth in Accounting recently released its State of the States Report for the 2013 fiscal year, and, according to the report, Pennsylvania has the thirteenth-worst debt of all the states in the nation: $14,500 per state taxpayer.

News from National Scene

The ruling from the 7th U.S. Circuit Court in Chicago declaring the Marriage Protection Amendments in Indiana and Wisconsin unconstitutional came the same day 32 states asked the US Supreme Court to settle the issue once and for all.

AT&T has been sued as a test case for the new sexual orientation and gender identity non-discrimination ordinance in San Antonio. A transgender contractor supposedly has audio recordings of a pair of AT&T employees that were "bashing transgender people in the workplace." AT&T has countered that the recordings not only violated company policy--they could be construed as violations of federal wiretapping laws and the recordings took place a day before the city approved the ordinance last year. However, that has not stopped the transgender contractor from going forward with the lawsuit!

Former Ronald Reagan Secretary of Education Bill Bennett has admitted that the public relations, lobbying, and business consulting firm DCI Group paid him to write a Wall Street Journal op-ed piece calling for conservatives to embrace Common Core.

One of the largest school districts in the nation, Florida's Lee County, voted to reverse a decision opting out of all state-required tests, including the federally funded Common Core standards and assessments.

Flamingo Rampant Book Club "will explicitly feature lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, and two-spirited people," targeting pre-K to 3rd grade.

AFA of PA encourages Christians, through education, to become involved in pro-family issues in their community, state and the nation.
