... You're Part of a Revolution?

Dear «SALUTATION»,

As you may have seen in the January 18th Derrick/News Herald "Good Times," the Latonia Theatre in Oil City is to hold its 'inaugural' concert on Saturday, February 9th. Tucson-based Indie/Folk phenomenon Namoli Brennet will be the performer for the evening. Sound like good clean family fun? Well, upon closer examination, there is apparently some false advertising involved in promoting the event.

Our assumption is that the Derrick/News Herald simply provided the information that was submitted and did no investigation into who was performing at the Latonia that evening. This lack of clarity seems to fall at the doorsteps of the Latonia and its lesbian owners. They are free to bring in the performer of their choice, but they should be straightforward with the public when it comes to promoting the event. One must ask: "What are they trying to hide?" Just who is Namoli Brennet?

A quick search on the internet reveals a different picture of the February 9th performer – this by simply the omission of one word – 'transgender.' You see, Namoli Brennet is a man who thinks he is a woman!

Namoli was born a male and named Brenden Kearney until he legally changed his name in April 2004. According to the June 10, 2004 Metro Weekly/Pride Guide, "Someone asked me, 'How do you describe yourself?'" recalls Brennet, "And I said, 'I don't really know -- I guess I see myself as an anomaly.' A few spelling twists later, Namoli was born." That same article goes on to say, "She identifies more as a
