News From Around PA

The ACLU has filed a legal motion to defend the Boyertown Area School District and its policy which allows boys in the girls' locker/shower room and vice versa. The boy who brought the lawsuit was told just to act "natural" when a girl is in his locker room changing. The principal suggested the young man use the nurse's office to change or withdraw from school and be homeschooled!

The State House unanimously passed a bill to prohibit someone charged with rape, involuntary deviate sexual intercourse or aggravated indecent assault against a child from being placed into the Accelerated Rehabilitative Disposition program.

An Illinois lawsuit against that state's new law legalizing video gaming terminal legalization may impact PA's attempt to do the same as HB 1010 is based upon the Illinois law.

New Hope-Solebury School District board voted 6-1 to pass a "Gender Expansive and Transgender Students" policy. It address pronouns, school records, facility access, school trips, dress codes and school activities.

Governor Tom Wolf has proposed merging the Departments of Aging, Health, Human Services and Drug and Alcohol Programs to create a new Health and Human Services Department.

News from National Scene

The Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals determined in an 8-3 ruling that homosexuals are protected from employment discrimination under federal law. A previous hearing of the case in a trial court resulted in a finding that Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 did not prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation. Note: The word "sex" is in Title VII, not "sexual orientation."

Putnam County, Florida has discovered that 42 ineligible voters -- deceased persons, convicted felons, or people who weren't registered residents of the state -- went to the polls.

Colonel Kristin Goodwin, an open lesbian with a "wife" and two children, has been nominated to be the next commandant of the US Air Force Academy.

President Trump has nominated State Senator Mark Green, a pro-family legislator from Tennessee, to be the next Secretary of the Army. If confirmed, he will be taking over for openly homosexual Eric Fanning.
