News from Around PA

It happened back in 2023, but it's just now being exposed through a student newspaper article: Another major donor to the University of Pennsylvania yanked his support from the Ivy League institution over antisemitism concerns. Stephen Levin had personally told former UPenn President Liz McGill, "Today Penn is far from the University I attended, along with my father and two of my sons." He never received a response from McGill.

In its voter integrity efforts, the U.S. Department of Justice asked PA to turn over its entire, unredacted voter registration list.

Official sponsors of the NWPA Pride Alliance: Central Outreach Wellness, Erie Food Co-op and Erie Insurance. Top donors: Highmark Health, Macy's, PNC Bank and Wegmans.

Be warned: NWPA Pride Alliance's Pride Day at Waldameer Park and Water World in Erie is August 17th.

Keystone Equality is PA's statewide LGBTQ political organization lobbying for LGBTQ-inclusive laws. This is what they mean: "Keystone Equality acknowledges that there are ever growing and changing terms that identify sexual and gender minority communities and strives to provide advocacy that will not leave anyone out. Keystone Equality works inclusively for and fully acknowledges the rights of all people in the extended Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer, Intersex, Pansexual, Asexual, Two Spirit, Gender Diverse, Nonbinary, plus other communities." Picture a Pennsylvania they want!
