News From Around PA

In the ongoing gender identity case against Cabela's in Hamburg (Berks County), they contend that their former employee "Kate" Blatt has not proven "her" gender dysphoria has a physical cause and thus should not be permitted to file a federal disability-discrimination claim under the Americans With Disabilities Act.

The Center for Public Integrity gives PA an F grade for the integrity of its institutions. The lack of accountability for wrongdoers in the legislative branch and weak oversight laws for ethics, campaign finance and lobbyist disclosure contribute to the F

Two Philly Planned Parenthood clinics were cited for unsafe and unsanitary conditions. Discoveries included aborted babies stuffed in a closet.

News from National Scene

The Human Rights Campaign, the nation's largest homosexual lobby group, is upset that nearly three dozen Christian colleges have received federal waivers allowing them not to accommodate transgender students in admissions, housing and other campus life areas. This entire national transgender situation was created when the Dept. of Education's Office for Civil Rights began taking the position that the federal law which prohibits sex discrimination applies to transgender students.

Over 2,000 regulations are now being written. Of these, 144 are deemed "economically significant"—that is, expected to cost Americans $100 million or more each. One of those is mandated labeling of serving sizes for food that "can reasonably be consumed at one eating occasion."

Obama has vetoed bills which would have killed the Clean Power Plan - his climate change initiatives that were a key bargaining chip in the recent UN Climate Conference in Paris.

The US has granted 680,000 green cards to immigrants from Muslim-majority countries over the past five years and is expected to grant another 660,000 over the next half-decade, according to Department of Homeland Security statistics.

The Supreme Court denied a request from the Center for Medical Progress to block a federal judge's order to turn over the names of people who supported their undercover work exposing Planned Parenthood.
