News from Around PA

Gov. Josh Shapiro's budget documents note that he would like to see recreational marijuana legalized with sales beginning Jan. 1, 2025.

The Saucon Valley School District (Northampton) has reversed course and will not allow the After School Satan Club to meet in school facilities, saying the club did not adhere to a school board policy requiring all third-parties to make it clear that the activities were not school-sponsored. The ACLU has threatened to sue.

Moon Township Public Library (Allegheny County) is still feeling the repercussions of their December 2021 promotion of the children's book The Hips on the Drag Queen Go Swish, Swish, Swish. The public outrage was immediate and the township supervisors continue to ask questions about the content of library materials. The head librarian also feels that the December 2021 decision has led to "static township funding."

Norwin School District board (Westmoreland) will be considering the removal of Al Capone Does My Shirts by Gennifer Choldenko, read by fifth graders. Some board members are concerned about sexual innuendos and references to rapists.

News From National Scene

During a White House ceremony, First Lady Jill Biden awarded transgender Alba Rueda the International Woman of Courage Award.

CA Governor Gavin Newsome has pledged that the state will boycott Walgreens because of its decision not to sell the abortion pill in the twenty states that signed onto a letter telling Walgreens (plus RiteAid and CVS) not to sell the pill in their state.

LGBTQ activist school board refuses to renew an 11-year contract with Arizona Christian University (ACU). The decision bans ACU students from serving as student teachers. The most vocal opponent of ACU said she felt that she and the other "queer kids" in her district would be in "personal danger" if they used ACU graduates.

In 2021 a transgender powerlifter sued USA

Powerlifting for banning him from competing against women. A Minnesota court ruled that USA Powerlifting had violated the state's anti-discrimination law and must allow him to compete.

Minnesota's governor signed an executive order making his state a "refuge" for persons seeking "transgender" surgeries and drugs and the doctors willing to prescribe them.

NHL team Minnesota Wild chose not to wear 'pride' jerseys during warmup.

The Warwick, Rhode Island chapter of the Boys and Girls Club of America sent out a survey to 9-year-olds asking if they are male, female, transgender or non-binary. The survey to 13-year-olds asked if they had ever engaged in sexual activity!
