Thanksgiving Day Should Be Non-Controversial, But . . .

News From Around PA

Greater Erie Alliance for Equality and Erie County Regional GSA will host its first ever youth Friendsgiving for ages 13-18. There will be no cost to the event being held at Erie Day School. This will place minors in direct contact with LGBTQ+ activists.

A network of digital newspapers called Courier Newsroom has been created. The creator says the point of the campaign is not to gain more readers, but rather to persuade the right readers in order to try to swing elections without letting the audience know of their political intent. It has already been launched in PA and five other swing states!

The PA Human Relations Commission has voted that Neshaminy School District (Bucks County) can keep the name Redskins for its athletic teams, but must educate students to prevent the stereotyping of Indians.

December 1st is World AIDS Day. According to the Philadelphia Dept. of Public Health, approximately 19,500 Philadelphia residents have been diagnosed with HIV/AIDS. This is five times the national average.

The Archbishop of Philadelphia has announced his resignation and one potential replacement is Father James Martin, an "LGBTQ-progressive priest."

News From National Scene

In Colorado, a Steamboat Springs High School teacher handed out a sexually charged poem that had been removed from school textbooks because of its content. The classroom assignment was to fill in the blanks with the original graphic descriptions, followed by discussing the poem's symbolism about a man's anatomy. According to the superintendent, the lack of parental notification was an oversight and the district regrets if "members of our community were offended."

Delta has announced that it will show explicit gay and lesbian sex scenes on its inflight entertainment.

The New Jersey Assembly voted to give $9.5 million taxpayer dollars to Planned Parenthood to replace the money lost due to Trump's Protect Life Rule.

Minnesota's Professional Educator Licensing and Standards Board is proposing a rule change that would require teachers to be well-versed in equity, a radical philosophy that views education through the lens of race, gender, sex. It is driven by the rampant criticism of traditional social structures, which are seen as oppressive.

With the confirmation of Judge Barbara Lagoa to the 11th Circuit Court, President Trump has been able to flip three circuit courts to a majority of Republican-president nominees. The 2nd and 3rd have also flipped.
